Welcome

The 11th International workshop POSIPOL-2016 will be held on September, 14-16 and hosted by the Laboratoire de l'Accélérateur Linéaire (LAL) situated on the University Paris-Sud Campus in Orsay (France).

The workshop will be focused on the polarized and unpolarized positron sources dedicated to the future linear and circular colliders. Several discussions will be devoted to the photon sources oriented towards industrial applications. It will cover the fundamental aspects as well as the related technological issues indicating the main directions in which the R&D must be pursued to push forward the current limitations.

The workshop is addressed to the wide community working on the electron-positron collider projects as well as to the scientists and engineers interested in the intense photon beams for industrial and medical applications.

Conference topics:
Polarized positron sources
Physics applications of polarized positrons
High intensity positron sources
Energy deposition densities in targets: thermal shocks
Channeling radiation and applications
Physics applications of X-rays and gamma rays
